SAW Communications Officer (for communication, marketing and promotion), 20 hours per week.

Shieldfield Art Works (SAW) is an artist-led Christian organisation committed to creativity, theological critique, and community engagement. We are a project of the Methodist Church, based in the Newcastle Central and East Circuit and funded by Grant Funding.

Through hospitality, art and enquiry and community engagement, we seek to bear witness to the love and grace of God, challenge the status quo and seek the good of our city, especially with the people of Shieldfield. Our values are embodied in our programme of exhibitions, discussions, art making, study days and theological reflection. All our work is underpinned with a rhythm of prayer and rest.

We are seeking a Communications Officer. As part of the core team this post will help SAW communicate its past, present and future activity to stakeholders, funders, visitors and online audience. The post holder will develop an annual promotional plan and forge networks with new places and people to grow our promotional reach. This role would also entail being a team player at events. The role needs someone with excellent planning, design skills, articulation and an ability to build an understanding of all areas of SAW.
